THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE ADJOURNED FRIDAY

was Well Attended, Well Enjoyed
and a Success in Every Feature.

LESS THAN HALF THE SECRETARY'S REPORT GIVEN IN THIS ISSUE

The Institute convened on Monday Aug. 23, in the Graded School, building at Marion. The opening devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Adams, of the M. E. church, after which "America" was sung by the Institute.

Supt. Jno. B. Paris made the opening address in which he introduced Prof. J. P. King, of Marion, as the instructor.

Officers elected were elected as follows: President, J. W. Rascoe, Vice Pres., J. B. McNeely, Secy., Ethel Hard, Assistant Secy., Frances Gray. After the election of officers the following teachers were enrolled: C. F. Cummins, Willie Clement, Jennie Clement, Edith Davis, Hollis Franklin, R. L. Dever, Mary H. Gibley, Maude Golightly, J. A. Gifford, T. E. Guill, Clara Hurley, Ruth Hill, Grace Hill, Eva Hicklin, Nell Hardin, Ethel Hard, Omar Johnson, J. P. King, Tress Kwon, Margaret Moore, H. E. Minner, Clara Nunn, Sue Moore, Marion Rascoe, Lillie Postelthwait, Margaret Rankins, Maude Richards, Ada Smage, J. W. Rascoe E. D. Reynolds, Della Stenbridge, F. D. Stue, Frances Gray, Florence Harlow, Mary Henry, Elva Hill, Belva Howard, J. C. Hardin, Roy Hughes, Earl James, Eva King, Duron L. C. Moore, Bertha Moore, Abel Minner, T. F. Newcomb, Herbert Ardway, Mrs. C. C. Perry, L. F. Paris, Marian Richards, Elva Riley, Elva Roberts, Stella Todd, Nellie Sutherland, S. P. Sam, Mary Slaney, Corda Smart, A. Todd, C. E. Thomas, Willie Thomas, Clarence Thompson, Mary Wilborn, Pearl Wadell, Mrs. Annie Walker, J. R. Wells, Corda Weller, W. L. Mathews, Mrs. Emma Tharp, Emma Terry, E. J. Travis, Mary Towry, Allie Wilborn, Oscar Wicker, Mabel Wilson, Timmie Wheeler and J. B. McNeely.

The instructor, Prof. J. P. King, addressed the Institute as to the purpose of the weeks work. The main purposes he said were: to broaden the outlook of the teachers, to raise their standard, to learn new and better methods and how to adopt them. He said he would try to see that the work done during the week would be of a practical, helpful nature.

C. E. Morris, of Princeton, the representative of the American Book Concern, was introduced by the instructor and said, "that as a teacher he endorsed the instructors plan of leaving out fine spun theories and spending the time in practical work. One of these practical things he said was reading and the child's ability to read. A child always imitates his teacher in reading as well as in other things, therefore it is of the greatest importance that a teacher should read well. Failure in many studies is caused from poor reading. A child should never be rushed in this study but taught slowly and carefully with much attention to his pronunciation and articulation. Adjournment until 1-30.

The afternoon session was opened by singing "America," after which the roll was called and the regular program taken up.

Prof. Rascoe discussed the work of the teachers in assigning work for the pupil, should make each lesson a link in the chain of the terms work in that study. He advised short, definite assignments to make clear the work expected of the pupil.

The instructor said he wished to emphasize the importance of teaching pupils how to study correctly and therefore leading them to think correctly.

Miss Margaret Moore in summing up the value of a pupil's knowledge of how to study, said that everything depended on this and that a teachers should teach that before anything else. Messrs T. F. Newcomb and J. B. McNeely, in telling how a pupil could be taught to study placed the greatest value on the interest aroused in the pupil.

C. E. Morris said all teachers should study some with the pupils and that mental arithmetic was good subject to develop the habit of correct study and to create self dependence.

Miss Mabel Miesner said a teachers attitude should always be animated, interested in everything and in looks and motions show it.

Miss Eva Hicklin said the intention of the whole class must be secured and that this could, in part, be done by very careful assignment preparation on part of both teacher and pupil and a bearing of interest by teacher.

A member of the Institute asked what should be done with a pupil whose attention could not be secured. Mrs. Walker answered the question by saying that if at a certain time a teacher could not create interest enough to hold the attention of pupils she should demand it, then afterward try to hold it. Mr. Morris added that the mental attitude of the teacher created or destroyed the interest of the class.

After a few moments recess the Institute had the pleasure of listening to a vocal solo by Miss Anna Haynes.

In the absence of Miss Corda Wheeler her subject of what should determine the nature of the questions asked during the recitation, was discussed by Miss Gray, Mr. Guill, Miss Golightly, Mr. Rascoe and the instructor.

The instructor in talking of attention warned the teacher against expecting a child to give voluntary attention during long continued periods. A teacher should make use of the involuntary attention to create the power of voluntary attention.

Adjourned until Tuesday Morning.

The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Adams and after singing the regular program was laid aside in order to have Mr. Adcock of Livingston county read a few of his poems from "Wooings of Rusticity."

Miss Mary Finly opened the discussion of reading by telling what she thought the aim in this work should be. She thinks it should be taught, not as a mere calling of words but as a subject of live interest and much importance. The aim should be to create power on part of pupils to read clearly and with expression and to understand and make others understand the meaning of the selection read.

Miss Ethel Hard said that the basis for work in reading should be the child, his nature, experience and environment. She said that a teacher should always see that the child is able, or is prepared for any selection before he tries to read it.

Miss Riley supplemented the foregoing talks by saying that the teacher should aim to get the child so interested that he would read for himself other things than his school books.

A teacher should be interested in the best gems of literature and love them in order to get the child to love them according to Mr. Harve Babb.

The instructor summarized the subject under discussion. He said that if the selection read reflects the nature and experience of the child he will read understandingly and in oral work be able to make others understand. The secondary aims in reading work, he said, is to create a love for good literature, to appreciate beauty and to build character. He reminded the teachers of rural schools that they have a fine field for the close study of the nature poets.

Miss Mary Wilborn said that rather than have pupils get an incorrect idea or impression of any selection she would read it first to them before giving them the lesson.

In the preparation of the lesson, Mr. C. E. Thomas said, that his plan of study would be to first have the child tell the selection as a story, to study the condition under which the selection was written, to study unfamiliar words and to try to understand things read, then to reproduce as memory work the whole or parts of the selection.

Miss Elva Roberts said that while one pupil reads she would mark demerits for pupils who are inattentive. The author's life, she thinks, should always be studied and in oral work the teacher should pay attention to the child's position.

Geoff and Prof. Rascoe said that much of the success in reading goes back to the assignment and preparation, and that if teachers fail in all else and succeed in reading their work will not have been in vain.

After a short recess the regular program was continued.

We were unable to get a full report of the Institute to our readers in this issue but will in next. In the first place the report was given us too late and in the second place there was more of it than any twice-a-week paper can handle at one time with but half a days notice. But it will all come out next issue.

It does look as if the whisky part of Kentucky was going to the bad.

The pavements in the congested part of town are good, in fact there could be no better, but in other portions of Marion they are bad to the extent that they could be no worse.

In the past two weeks Owensboro has lost $200,000 by fire and in but one week six mothers have lost six babies. The baby of Henderson from pistols in the hands of men who, whether or not, justifiably violated one of the commandments.
Where will these mothers place their loss.

The killing of Ed Duke, the starter in the Albuquerque Race Meet, by Will Ball in front of a saloon in the city of Henderson Friday evening,
makes the sixth tragedy to the credit in a little more than a month, and if we are not mistaken, whisky figured prominently in every one of them. The Journal says it is time to put up the pistols. So it is Bro. Harris, and yet the pistols are not near so dangerous with the saloon dead. Surely the six souls sent into Eternity unprepared were worth more than all the saloons in Henderson.

The City of Owensboro was visited by another destructive fire on last Thursday evening shortly after six o'clock, from which, deficiency in fire fighting, allowed $40,000 worth of goods and property to be reduced to ashes. The comedy of errors practised in the $130,000 Pierson fire were repeated in this one. The Fire Chief was unwinding hose instead of giving orders while the City Attorney held a stop watch to see how long it would take it to burn.

If Owensboro would fight fire with the same determination that she "fights booze" hell wouldn't blaze
in twenty years.

The Shamokin, Pa., Daily News
of June 14, 1909, says:
The street parade was perhaps the biggest, brightest and best that ever passed through the streets of Shamokin. The horses were fat and sleek, some great big ones and some little tiny ones, and all to be admired. Three bands furnished exceptionally good music and the gold decorated wagons and dazzling ex-costumes of the performers, the big herd of elephants and camels all went to make the pageant a delight to every one of the hundreds of happy spectators.

"A large audience attended this afternoon's performance and came away delighted with the entertainment. There is an abundance of merry making clowns, while each and every act is worthy of individual commendation, some being of such novel and extraordinary character as to deserve special mention,
among which are the riding seals.
These wonderful aquatic creatures
perform a series of marvelous acts.
They actually ride on bareback horses, play ball, juggle and balance various objects while riding on the backs of fleet horses. This may seem incredulous yet nevertheless may be witnessed at each performance.

"Another act that deserves more than passing comment is that of the American Hercules. The strong man, Warren Lincoln Travis, whose phenominal feats, showing the wonderful muscular power of the human frame, both astonish and amaze the beholders. The elephant which dances, waltz and perform various feats subject to the master mind of their trainer, were pronounced to be the best performing herd ever seen in this section. An admirable feature was the six horse act. The riding, driving and managing of six horses by Gordon Orion is a most wonderful display of equestrian daring. In fact, every act presented was of the highest order of excellence and skill after its kind.

"The menagerie was one of the largest and most comprehensive in its make up ever brought into this section.

"Taken as a whole, it is recognized as one of the greatest shows that has ever visited the state and such is the unanimous verdict heard from many of the thousands who flocked into the city to see it."

This great combined show will spread its many tents in Marion on Friday, September, 10th 1909.

Citizens Life Insurance Co.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 26th, '09

Editor, Record-Press:

I am pleased to advise you that the total amount of stock subscriptions received at the close of this Bulletin is $580,260.

There are fifteen life insurance companies organized with home offices in the state of New York. There are seventy-one life insurance companies organized and with home offices in the twenty states South of the Ohio and Potomac rivers and between the Mississippi river and the Rocky Mountains. During the year ending December 31st, 1908, those fifteen New York life insurance companies pumped into New York as premiums paid as policyholders in these twenty Southern and Western states, the enormous amount of $42,117,031. In the same year the seventy-one companies of the South and West received from the policyholders in New York state the sum of $5,579, but the chances are that even this amount did not come from native New Yorkers.

Is that a reciprocal condition the South and West will much longer permit? Is the time not ripe for a great company within this territory capable of handling such an enormous volume of business? Why should not Kentucky have a company to control the life insurance business in the states referred to, when the territory covered by the figures quoted is only that logically within the scope of operation of a big Kentucky Company?

Food for thought: For the Five or Six Thousand Dollars that the companies quoted in the South and West took out of New York state last year in the way of premiums, New York State took from these sections over Forty-two Million Dollars.

Mr. R. W. WILSON

The condition of Mr. R. W. Wilson who has been critically ill for so long, is yet unchanged. While he is very old, having reached the four-score mile-stone, the high esteem in which he is held by the people of Marion and Crittenden county is such that were it in their gift, life and good health would be as long as theirs to give. This good man has been one of Marion's best and most enterprising citizens, a true Kentucky gentleman of the old school and a benefactor to Marion in many ways. For sure the people will miss him when God shall call him to share the home prepared for the just. Some days he surprises his friends by getting up and looking cheerful, giving them hopes of his ultimate recovery and then the next news comes that he is worse. May God bless him by restoring him to health if but a few short years.

Notice.

STURGIS.

(From Henderson Journal)

Sturgis, Ky., Aug. 24.—Sunday morning at 6 o'clock, a party of nine left Sturgis for Glasgow, Ky., at which place they took passage on the Hieronymus naptha launch and after a twenty mile trip down the Ohio they arrived at Tolu, Ky., about 9 o'clock. They disembarked here and drove by carriage three miles into the country, where the Rev. J. J. Smith has just begun a Methodist camp meeting. Bro. Smith has been known all through this territory for twenty years and a renewal of his acquaintance, as well as the day's pleasure upon the river was enjoyed very keenly by our Sturgis company. The party consisted of the following representative citizens of Sturgis: Fred L. Alloway, O. C. Quisenberry, B. Rhina, W. S. Williams, J. N. Raulins, W. B. Winston, D. W. Bishop, A. L. Grady and J. D. Hedges.

TWENTY ENCAMPMENTS.

Twenty annual encampments have been held at this place, eighteen of which have been conducted by the same J. J. Smith. Among the peculiar rules governing these encampments are the following: No one is allowed to smoke tobacco within a distance of twenty feet of the tabernacle. No man and woman are allowed to sit together, except a man and his wife and then they must have with them a child needing the care of its parents.

Fifteen hundred people were present Sunday, among whom were men who have never missed being present a single day during the twenty encampments and have seen as many as five thousand people in attendance at one time.

But if within twenty years this country has seen much of religious revival, it is the glory of God, for in the early years of the nineteenth century, probably no land in the world witnessed more murders and robberies than did this territory near the cave in the rock.

GRAVE OF WILLIAM FORD.

After the morning service our Sturgis party visited the grave of William Ford, distant from the mouth of the Hurricane about one mile. William Ford in life was a noted character—noted alike for his benevolence and his wickedness. It has been said that in his home and to his neighbors he was a type of the cultured southern gentleman. Tradition has it that he was also the leader of the notorious band of thieves and river pirates that infested the regions near the mouth of the Hurricane whose headquarters was the famous cave-in rock, just across the Ohio in Illinois. Many a missing man has been traced to this neighborhood where all trace of him has been lost.

HOW HE WAS SHOT.

It was said that after several years Ford's neighbors sure of his connection with this band, and unable to produce that legal proof necessary to convict him, formed a posse and dealt out to this man justice in the Southern style. Guns were loaded, some with powder, others with powder and ball, then these guns were so mixed that no one knew which were the loaded or blanks. Having chosen their guns this posse then marched upon the house of Ford and finding him upon his porch shot him to death. It was never known who were responsible for his death.

LIGHTNING STRUCK CASKET.

It is a traditional story that while the funeral was in progress that a terrible storm came up, so awful that no storm like it in its fierceness had ever been seen in that territory before. As the negro slaves were lowering Ford's remains into the grave a terrible flash of lightning from the storm struck the head of the casket, throwing the attendants into a panic, so fear-stricken were the negroes that the white people had to finish the ceremonies.

The following inscription upon the monument of Ford was copied by Mr. Quirey, a member of the Sturgis party.

"Wm. Ford died Nov. 3rd, 1832 whose benevolence caused the widows and orphans to smile and whose firmness caused his enemies to tremble. He was much oppressed while living and much slandered in death."

What America Needs.

"What America needs more than railway extension, and western irrigation, and a low tariff, and a bigger wheat crop, and a merchant marine, and a new navy, is a revival of piety, the kind mother and father used to have—piety that counted in good business to stop for daily family prayers before breakfast, right in the middle of the harvest, that quit work a half hour earlier Thursday night, so as to have chores done and go to prayer meeting, that borrowed money to pay the preacher's salary and prayed fervently in secret for salvation of the rich man who looked with scorn on such unbusinesslike behavior. That's what we need now to clean this country of the filth of graft, and of greed, petty and big, of worship of fine houses and big lands and high office and grand social functions. What is the thing which we are worshipping but a vain repetition of what doomed nations fell down and worshipped just before their light went out? Read the history of Rome in decay and you'll find luxury there that could lay a big dollar over our little doughnut that looks so large to us. Great wealth never made a nation substantial nor honorable. There is nothing on earth that looks good that is so dangerous for a man or a nation to handle as quick, easy, big money. If you do resist its deadly influence the chances are that it will get your son. It takes greater and finer heroism to dare to be poor in America than to charge an earth-works in Manchuria."

PERSONALS.

Just before adjourning on Friday evening, Prof. J. P. King presented, in the name of Dr. F. W. Nunn, a handsome 13x15 calendar to every teacher attending the institute. This was thoughtful in Dr. Nunn, and very much appreciated by the teachers.

Paul H. Hossage, who has been confined to his bed for 71 days of typhoid fever, is now able to sit up and soon his many friends hope to have him returned to them in good health. His efficient horse, Mrs. F. B. White, reports his case as having been a very dangerous one and only through the best physical skill and good nursing has the victory been won over this dread disease.

Pinus Black of near Sturgis, was in Marion yesterday and while here called and renewed his subscription to the Record-Press.

W. H. Robertson, a highly respected citizen of the county, called to renew his subscription yesterday.

Mrs. J. S. Ainsworth left Tuesday for Lexington to visit relatives.

Miss Edith Price has been confined to her room for a week with typhoid fever.

Mr. Postmaster Marion, Ky. Dear Sir,—I think there is a man in your neighborhood by the name of Admiral Dockery. He worked for me several years ago and I would like to have him again, and 25 more with him. Am working an extra drug on the Louisville Henderson & St. Louis Railroad, between Lexington and Paducah and am paying $1.25 per day and transportation. Yours truly, W. N. Hoyt

Scabies In Sheep.

The quarantine recently declared by the United States Department of Agriculture on the State of Kentucky on account of the disease known as scabies in sheep has been modified so as to permit the forwarding in interstate commerce of shipments from other States of sheep that are free from scabies and, from expatriate thereto, and that in transit through Kentucky are unloaded at points in that State, provided such unloading shall be into pens or yards which have been specially cleaned and disinfected for the purpose, under the supervision of an employee of the Bureau of Animal Industry, and which have been specially designated and approved for that purpose by the Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry.

The quarantine has also been modified so as to permit the interstate shipment of sheep of States not quarantined for scabies, which are exhibited at the Kentucky State fair to be held at Louisville, Sept. 13 to 15, subject to following restrictions:

Such sheep shall be shipped by rail to Louisville and shall not be unloaded in the area quarantined for sheep scabies elsewhere than at Louisville. Separate cleaned and disinfected elutes and other facilities shall be provided for the exclusive unloading and loading of such sheep at Louisville. Such sheep shall be hauled in cleaned and disinfected wagons direct from the cars in which they arrive at Louisville to the fair grounds, and from the fair grounds direct to the cars in which they are to be reshipped.

That portion of the fair grounds or other premises to be occupied exclusively by such sheep shall be cleaned and disinfected under the supervision of an employee of the Bureau of Animal Industry before said sheep are placed therein.

Such sheep shall not be moved interstate from Louisville except in cleaned and disinfected cars, or trucks accompanied by a certificate issued by an inspector of the Bureau of Animal Industry showing that the sheep have had no opportunity to become infected with scabies.
